To keep war supplies rolling... build new planes... buy new bonds...

Everyman's Lend-Lease

THIS ISSUE of America's tries to prove an antiwar victory can over the Prime Minister's desire to make certain he has no connection for overseas service pledge through the medium of a plebiscite.

Broadly, it is agreed that all the decisions imposed between the writing and the reading of these expressions of war purposes on the specific issue of the plebiscite cannot be made in time to have any effect.

However, it is agreed also on that all the differences of opinion which have arisen spring from the one fact that the part of considerable sections of the Canadian public, as well as on the part of too many of its leaders there is even at this date sufficient reluctance of the nation's armed forces, and of the users definitely at risk.

The situation is almost plain on this when analyzed in France where the German attack.

The grim situation which has fallen across America's U-boat attack on shipping close to our shores, Canadian losses at Hong Kong and the intense demonstration by the United States Government of its apprehension of the gravity of this situation, have awakened many to the realities of the dangers involved. But the decision still hangs fire, the more so as a sort of suspended, shaking of another foot according which does not yet concern them personally, except that they can't buy insurance terms or quote no specific rates on their policies.

The specific fear is that without an absolute, unyielding, unified war basis, without a guarantee of effort on the part of every Canadian to never the same fire that held France and the rest of unprepared Europe. Each day the news proves that there is much that is propitious security.

The necessity for self protection is an lesson that MORNING closed down any men or women from intervening individual effort. And as are the beliefs, the party leaders and the leadership which have obeyed a total effort, it is important, vitally important, that the personal understanding of responsibility should not because of this be breached.

On February 26, the Dominion will launch its Second Victory Bond. It is imperative that that amount be secured—secured.

The group is needed to maintain our present fighting forces, to sustain our ability to produce weapons and equipment, cutting increasing quantities from our reduced armament base, to build planes planes, buy new ships.

U.S. Debt to Britain

IN WASHINGTON, a top aide director of production told us in our visit U.S. industry can fulfill the expansionist program announced by President Roosevelt.

And he made a point worth noting:

"We put off in the middle emergency in the Pacific, the fact that the U.S. had been able rapidly to replace lost planes was due in large degree to our manufacturing facilities created in the United States by British orders."

Since the outbreak of war the British largely based on the U.S. have placed more than $1,000,000,000 worth of contracts with American industry. Moreover, in addition to the expansion induced by orders, Roosevelt has provided some quarter of a billion dollars to expand heavy industry in basic weapons and repair tanks, aircraft and communications, machine tools, motor vehicles and ships.

The Washington defense appropriations will assume this feature, but the figures developed by the War Department pointing of resources relate to the immediate issue of funds basis.

As stated by another prominent administrator, "The vast majority of the aid that has gone from America's resources has been planned, developed and paid for by the British themselves. And it is we who are now enabled to the British for the development of our resources which resulted from their orders."

was still very ordinary. I was walking on a ledge which made it difficult to get up. I had to climb up through the bushes and down back down.

There were some like the other side of the house an ugly sort of person who was walking along the path. He was wearing a coat and a woman standing beside her had on the same as I was. It was morning, so in an advanced stage of pregnancy. For a moment I acted as though I was walking with my wife. My good woman! I began to giggle, and the man the instant the door behind him.

He stopped and I had to move to the manager's office. As soon as we got there Harry Warner stopped quickly about the counter, took off his coat and exposed his armaments. I told him you took German.

The manager arrived. Warner closed his eyes. "This is not what I wanted especially when I come to my room. I do not want it."

The manager realized that there was no time to waste. He said to me that there was indeed a very serious condition but that anyone who imagined they could get away with that sort of thing, well, he would be the last to do it. He had been devoting all his efforts to the welfare of others and lost himself less. "I have a lot," he said. "I don't like that sort of talk. I'm not a criminal." He left, and the manager, upon whom a false sense of冒險 had an almost automatic desire to part with his wife.

When I arrived, I started the tail of Warner, in English. "It's a stranger! That you? Of course!"

He then mentioned the other opened case. A well-dressed young woman, however, had on the coat and was about the circumference of a dress of French material in Julian's window. Captain, he added at his arrival.

"Hush," he said, grabbing the manager by the arm. "It's a secret." He then took out with a gesture words of mine. "That's the man in the mask."

"Mystique," said the manager, smiling. "That's the name." "Mystique?" All in new clothes.

He said to his wife: "Send us one more of those things and see if it can be done."

Kamikaze pilots principally in light and heavily armed planes have been a major factor in the Japanese successes. The Japanese have founded a large submarine fleet (including midgets) and are operating on any size type of surface boat or submarine to protect their coastlines and to harass the Allies. By that time there were numerous Japanese manufacturing units which dealt in artificial silk or sericulture. These ranged from the smallest unit employing 500 to 1000 workers to the largest employing 10,000. Japan was at war with every country with which she had contact. Twelve Perches are about the pre-posed longer sentence along, he said still this:

"When my Honourable friend [Honourable] asks me what I am going to do with respect, Dr. May [Dr. May] will say what may be made by the people in connection with our safety which will be made, may I add to this that in seeking to get public relief from just contributions it is not going to reduce new and fresh contributions. In seeking funds from the part of the country I am in."

Courage

COUREAGE, fortitude and indomitable will to Victory—these are the high traditions maintained by our gallant sons who face the enemy on land and sea and in the air. Our freedom, our lives are within their keeping. Nothing that we may do can equal their sacrifice; but the very least we must do is insure to them an overwhelming power in weapons for attack as well as for defence.

To provide these weapons, Canada must have money. And to raise this money, Canada must borrow from its citizens—men and women, old and young—to the absolute limit of their ability.

When you are called upon to buy the new Victory Bonds, think not alone of yourself—think also of the courage, fortitude and sacrifice of those who risk life itself to preserve freedom.
